

George Brown CollegeFest Scrapbook

CollegeFest... was more than an open house. It was the largest multi-campus event ever organized at George Brown College. Staff and students all over the College displayed their talents and facilities to more than 3,000 visitors over a six-hour period on April 21, 1988.

That number included more than 2,500 students from 61 schools.

Groups from as far away as London, Port Perry, and Lindsay were met by student volunteer guides who directed visitors to displays and lab areas.

All classroom and lab areas were open to visitors for CollegeFest, and many Divisions set up displays of student work, program and career information.

Student visitors find out how jewellery is made at George Brown's open house - CollegeFest.

HERE'S WHAT YOU SAID!

"My students were amazed at the variety and sophistication of programs."

Michael Hussey, Valley Park

"CollegeFest made the students aware that university is not the only option."

Valerie McConnell, St. Barbara

"(George Brown) students displayed real work behaviours and attitudes... an excellent glimpse into the real world."

Nick Bianchi, Regina Mundi

"A great experience. I learned a lot."

Valerie Hatt, grade 12
Etobicoke

"It's a great College with friendly people."

Alison Barriffe, grade 8
Edenwood

HANDS ON - That was the order of the day as visitors tried everything from computer programming to soldering. Academic departments all over the College opened their doors for CollegeFest.

It was literally hands-on in the Nursing Department at St. James (top right) as students tested visitors' blood pressure.

The Electronics Department at St. James offered visitors the opportunity to construct their own flashing badges using small circuit boards, lights and batteries (middle right).

Visitors were entranced (bottom right) as a Printing student demonstrated a press in the Graphic Arts Division at St. James.

Names in the News

Visiting students at CollegeFest collected information about career options, George Brown programs, and souvenirs of the program areas they visited.
